GOSSIP OF THE RUNNERS.

Metropolitan Handleap Expected to At tract All the Good Horses.

The Metropolitan Handicap, which is the opening day feature of the spring meeting at Morris Park, will be worth nearly $20,000 this year. The added money has been increased from $7,500 to $10,000, which places the Metropolitan on an equal basis with the Brooklyn, Suburban and Brighton Handleaps.

Article III., to read as follows:

There shall be seven stewards of the club, the two sentor of whom shall retire at the general annual meeting of each year and shall not be eligible for reflection until the following year, the first two retiring stewards to be decided by lot. The retiring stewards shall then flominate two ether members to succeed them, subject to the approval of the members present, and such newly appointed stewards shall continue in office for two years.

of the members present, and such newly appointed stewards shall continue in office for two years.

It is said that Ed Corrigan, the supposed owner of Hawthorne krack, Chicago, will build a new track at New Orleans before next season which will divide the winter season there with the Crescent City Jockey Club. Corrigan has succeeded in regaining his feet financially, in recent years, chiefly through the revenue from Hawthorne, and only a short time ago he made a deal for a new track in Kangas City. Corrigan has already secured an option on a site for the new track at the Crescent City and has formulated plans for a rich Dyrby and other valuable stake events in an effort to cater to horsemen and the racing public.

According to a report circulated in Chicago, August Belmont, R. T. Wilson, Jr., and W. C. Whitney have forwarded nominations to the American Derby to be run at Washington Park in June.

The stewards of the National Hunt and Steeplechase Association at a recent meeting passed the following resolution:

Resolved. That no sanction shall be given by the stewards to any meeting to run steeplechase or hurdle races with the june pand courses shall have been pronounced satisfactory by the committee of the stewards appointed for the purpose.

Further, That the accretary be instructed to send a copy of this resolution to the several associations in the State of New York.

This action is calculated to prevent a repetition of the numerous accidents last season due to the poor condition of the steeple-chase course at certain tracks, particularly Gravesend.

Rumor has it that Burns & Waterhouse will retire from the turf.
Sam Hildreth continues to make the bookmakers at New Orleans weary. He won a bunch on Paul Creyton, 12 to 1, on Thursday. Riley Grannan, who was a heavy winner the first of the week, is now reperted to have dropped a bundle in laying against public choices.

Amateur Billiard Tournament—Foss and Lewis, 165: Gedney, 142. Total, 781:

Amateur Bullard Tournament-Fess and

. Gardner. TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN-Sir: Refer ring to the recent article in THE SUN on the proposed billiard tournament, for which in-Club, there appear to be some matters which are not entirely clear. It has not been intima-ted as to the auspices under which the games shall be played or the rules which shall govern shall be played or the rules which shall govern the contest.

The two previous tournaments were held at the Hanover Club, under the rules and regulations of the N. A. A. B., and it was so advertised in the daily papers at the time. This does not appear to be the case now either with the Hanover Club invitations or the papers. The deed of gift of the Eagle cup stipulates that the game shall be contested to conform to the regulations and under the auspices of the N. A. A. B. Mr. Foss and others who have been invited by the Hanover Club for this particular contest are not members of the N. A. A. B., nor have they applied for membership. The Hanover invitations to players, on its face, shows that it is purely a club affair, and gives no intimation as to what conditions shall prevail, nor does it convey with it the right to play for the Eagle cup as per the deed of gift to the N. A. A. B., and no assumption based upon the Hanover invitation can be considered as conclusive of this.

and no assumption based upon the Names of this.

After careful inquiry on the writer's part he is positive that while the N. A. A. B. is always willing to receive into its association players in good standing who have taken part in A. A. U. contests, it was not their custom to extend direct invitations. It is well known among amateur billiardists that Mr. Gardner perfected himself for the 1901 competition solely at the request of, and to oblige the N. A. A. B. and some Hamilton Club friends, as there were not at the time sufficient entries of the first class to guarantee a successful tournament. He has always been a stanch supporter of the N. A. A. B., and feels that this is an inopportune time to create any dissension or feeling by ignoring the N. A. A. B., as they are to-day the only recognized authority in amateur billiards, due to the changed conditions in the A. A. U. and the writer feels sure that there will be no objection made by any members of the N. A. A. B. to receiving into their association any of the proposed contestants who have previously competed in the A. A. U. tournaments.

As to the assertion in the Brockin Eagle.

any of the assertion in the Brooklyn Eagle of Jan. 9 that Mr Gardner desired to avoid meeting Mr Foss in a contest, it is an error on somebody's part, for Mr. Gardner agreed to play Mr. Foss a game of 1.000 points at the Knickerbocker Academy, Brooklyn, some weeks previous to this discussion, and he also suggested that Mr. Foss be invited to play in the Liederkrans tournament, in which Mr. Gardner had already entered his name, in conclusion the writer desires to say that Mr. Gardner's position in this discussion, which he greatly deplores is practically as outlined in The Sun of Jan. 9, and he leeis that it would be very easy to harmonize all conflicting ideas and interests. C. E. M. NEW YORK, Jan. 15.

Brooklyn, Suburban and Brighton Handicaps.
The Westchester event differs from the others, however, in that the distance is only a mile instead of a mile and a quarter; but as the Metropolitan is run much earlier in the season, it is much more suitable for the horses that go to the post. In all probability, when the entries close on Feb. 10 it will be found that the Metropolitan has attracted nearly all the crack thoroughbreds that have been named for the other big handicaps, so that a great race may be looked for.

It is probable that at the next meeting of the Jockey Club seven stewards will be elected instead of six. J. G. Follansbee and William Astor Chanler will introduce the change which will be an amendment to Rule 1. Article III., to read as follows:

There shall be seven stewards of the club, the two sentor of whom shall retire at the general singual meeting of each year and shall not be eligible.

side all day, watching the queer-looking things being unloaded.

It is only three years since the first automobile show in the Garden was held and yet the demand for space now exceeds the supply. Not on account of its size alone, but for many reasons this event will probably be the most interesting industrial show ever held in the Garden.

So much has been revealed by the makers about their new models that it has seemed as if nearly everything novel to appear was known beforehand, but the arrival of the exhibits dispelled this notion. A new steam car with tonneau and the engine in a bonnet in frontwas halled as revolutionary two weeks ago, but it is now known that four different makers have done the same thing.

While there has been a great amount of copying of European models by the American makers, it has been commented upon that most of it has been of superficial character, that the body designs and small features were copied, but not the engines and that there were few radical changes. It is tures were copied, but not the engines and that there were few radical changes. It is plain, though, from what could be seen yes-terday that this is not quite true and that more than one maker has been secretive about his radical changes. There are plenty of makers who cling to the horizontal engine positioned in the body of the machine, but a casual going over of the exhibits shows that many have at last adopted the vertical engine located under a metal bonnet in front. As for radical changes there are several asolene cars that drive direct from the high gear, the latest European idea, and at least one gasolene car, the new locomobile, will show about all the up-to-date features of the French and German makes. These include a throttle governing system. By means of a lever on the steering wheel the intake of the explosive mixture can be regulated by throttle so that the engine can be slowed from 2,000 revolutions down to 200, and it can be run through crowded streets almost as handily and noiselessly as a steamer. A dynamo ignition that is automatic in its action is employed on this car and it is made with a steel frame to which either aluminum or wooden bodies are fitted.

Of novelties there will be enough to interest and instruct. One of these is a steam fire wagon, similar to those used by the insurance patrol and said to be capable of 70 miles an hour. It carries big reservoirs of chemical extinguishing fluid under pressure. Another is a little true buckboard on which the engine, of the air-cooled type, is on the rear ale and wholly exposed.

There will be a great variety of cabs, coupés, broughams and victorias. A brougham with a rear boot and operated from the rear is one novelty in this line, but there are a number of others. In the way of commercial vehicles it is notable that several makers have turned to this branch since last year. The big safe-hoisting trucks and the delivery wagons were on hand yesterday and something new in the way of a steam wagon made to deliver mail in the tropics will be on hand to-night. There are also several other new things in the draught line on the way.

Most of the cars use a chain transmission, but there are at least half a dozen now using a shaft and bevel gears. There are several new things in the less than $1,000. While the general assortment shows an increase in weight and in price, there are several new runabouts at less than $1,000. gasolene cars that drive direct from the high gear, the latest European idea, and at least Four teams competed in the Fire Insurance Smith Plays a Good Uphill Game and Defeats Ward of Brooklyn. The first two players last night in the protauk Academy, Brooklyn, were Nat Ward of Brooklyn and George Smith of Hartford of Brooklyn and George Smith of Hartford. Smith won an interesting game. Ward picked out a nice combination in the first frame, its difficulty lying in the distance between the two object balls. It required fine calculating and was a showier but no harder shot than Ward made in the second frame, when he made a long journey along the side rail and pocketed the seven ball, both cue and object ball being frozen to the rail. He got all the balls in the second frame and had 25 balls in two frames to Smith's 5.

Ward's cueing in the fourth frame was highly artistic. He led off with an example of his proficiency at long shots and then 148; Bonn, 152; Lewis, 215. Total, 885.

First Game.

Fir deftly disposed of thirteen more before Smith had an inning. Then Smith, who is a player of nice stroke and fast in shooting to the point of being too much so, took a turn and moved up with a speedy seame that netted the entire ivory population. Each missed the easiest kind of a shot in the sixth frame, but Smith in workmanlike style took fourteen of the fifteen and was only six balls behind.

"I've forcotten how to break them." observed Ward as he made a mess of a break shot. Smith missed in turn and Ward touched off a combination at a grotesque angle. A long bank and a foul on a push shot were other features of this variegated inning of Ward's. other features of this variegated inning of Ward's.

Smith was unsteady and careless, but his nerve was all right and shortcomings did not keep him from playing a good uphili game. When the spirit moved him he dropped the bulls into the holes rapidly and with precision. He pressed Ward in the minth frame at the end of which the score was: Smith, 67; Ward, 68. Another foul by Ward gave Smith a chance to run fitteen to cover at one fell swoop, and then Ward changed cues. Smith's cyclonic clip carried him so far ahead that Ward could not catch him.

Billing Elmer will take him in tow and box with him daily. The miner will also go through a couple of wrestling bouts with Bothner. Munroe is not in the best of shape now to show what he can do. He says that a few days of labor will put him on edge, and by Wednesday he hopes that the sports will be able to judge him favorably. He will box several rounds with Elmer then. Elmer is fast and clever and will be able to try Munroe out to some extent.

Clark Ball exhibited an ugly cut on his forehead which he received recently by coming into collision with Bob Fitzsimmons's right. "I worked hard for him and it was my brain that evolved the idea of forming the combination but I'll get even with him yet, you can wager. Some day, and it is not so far distant, Munroe will meet Fitz-simmons and will give him a worse thrashing than did Jeffries." Munroe says that he is 27 years old and that he was born at Chester, Pa. Crescents Win From the Hockey Club -Decision of Referee Causes Trouble. The Crescent A. C. and the Hockey Club of New York met at the St. Nicholas rink last night and the building was well filled as an interesting contest was looked for. The Crescents won by 5 goals to 3. In the first half neither side scored, but the game was very fast from the start. The Crescent players were in better physical condition than their opponents and in the second half suc ceeded tallied once. Before the game began there was a long conference between Capts. Dobby and Russell as to who should be referee and it was a long conference between Capts. Dobby and Russell as to who should be referee and it was not until fifteen minutes after the time announced for the game to begin that they agreed on W Jennison of the Brooklyn Skating Club. In the second half a scrimmage occurred in front of the Crescent goal during which the cage was knocked over Just after it fell Russell shot the puck and it landed in the net. Max Hornfeck, the goal umpire, called it a goal, but the referee would not allow the goal. He said he had blown his whistle for time to put up the cage, but no one heard it. The decision caused lots of hooting and hissing, but to no purpose.

Drakely played point on the Crescent team for the first time this season. He has not forgotten how to trip with his skate resting on the toe. The game was not very rough and the only one hurt was Newbery, who was hit on the temple with the puck. Ellison and McKenzie had lots of work to do in the first half and each stopped many hard shots.

In the second half Liffton and Dobby did the best work for the winning team. Liffton scored twice, assisted by Dobby, and once without assistance. Dobby scored twice unassisted. For the Hockey Club, De Casenova worked the puck and Russell landed it in the net.

With fast playing, hard checking and swift passing the Poly Pren School defeated the Cathedral School of St. Paul's last night by 8 to 1 at the Clermont Avenue Rink in Brooklyn. The match was the first of the series for the championship of the Long Island Interscholastic Athletic League and was witnessed by one of the largest crowds of the season.

PITATIELD. Jan. 16.—The Yale hockev team was defeated to-night by the Pittsfield team by 6 to 3 in a game which was replete in brilliant playing and marvelous team work. The first half was a tie, but in the second pittsfield kept Yale entirely on the defence and outplayed the collegians in every department of the game.

An organization meeting for the purpose of forming the Amateur Skating Association of the United States was held last night at Clermont Avenue R'nk, Brooklyn, but the conclave was unsuccessful owing to a lack of representative clubs. The Skating Club of Brooklyn was represented by E. Dunn and there were two proxies, one from the Springfield Skating Club and the other from the St. Louis A.A. It was said that the Verona Lake Skating Club sent a delegate, but he could not be found in the building. Harry E. Buermeyer, president of the National Association of Amateur Skaters, presided, and when he learned the strength of the meeting advised an adjournment to some furture date and instructed those present to try to have a more representative gathering the next time.

A great drawback to the move was the absence of Clifford E. Dunn, who fathered the new association. He is away in the West and will be home next Sunday. What has undoubtedly precipitated the formation of the new organization is that the American skating championships have been given to Canada, and that skaters behind the new body are of the opinion that the United States is large enough to hold an annual championship, irrespective of any other country. Mr. duermeyer said to a reporter of TEE Sun after the meeting:

"The sport is important enough to be governed by an organization of its own, the same as athletics, rowing and other ouddoor pastimes, and surely this country is large enough to support a speed and figure-skating championship, to be held in the vicinity of some large city in the East or West. If the skaters show an inclination to help the new project I am satisfied to lend a hand, but if the next meeting is not representative I am through with skating and skates."
